The Honorable Parris N. Glendening
Governor of Maryland
State House
Annapolis, MD 21401

Dear Governor Glendening:

On behalf of the members of the State Council on Cancer Control, I am pleased to submit the Council's 2001 Annual Report.

This past year was quite busy for the Cancer Council— with a resulting momentum that will carry us beyond 2002. In January 2001, the Council urged the Maryland General Assembly to pass several important pieces of legislation— foremost among them, the colon cancer screening mandated benefit bill and continued funding of the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program. In June, the Council held its second annual planning retreat, which identified priorities to guide the Council throughout the year. June also saw the institution of the Council's Executive Committee to assist both the Chair and staff in setting priorities and distilling issues for future meetings.

Finally, the crowning achievement for the Council was its Fifth Biennial Symposium held at Martin's West in November— highlighting the progress and accomplishments of the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program.

Looking ahead, the Council plans to harness the energy from the symposium— focusing efforts on cancer-related policies and legislation and developing a comprehensive cancer control plan using funding from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. This will allow us to help shape cancer priorities for Maryland and will, no doubt, be one of our most ambitious endeavors yet.

The Maryland State Council on Cancer Control looks forward to continuing to strengthen its relationship with your office, the Department of Health & Mental Hygiene, and the cancer community, so that we may all contribute to the war against cancer in Maryland.

Sincerely,

J. Richard Lilly, M.D.
Chairman

I. HISTORY AND CURRENT CHAIR

The Maryland State Council on Cancer Control was established by former Governor William Donald Schaeffer with an Executive Order (01.01.1991.22) on June 26, 1991. Governor Paris N. Glendening reaffirmed the mission of the Council with an updated Executive Order (01.01.1997.07) on November 2, 1997.

With these Executive Orders, the Council is charged with ensuring a coordinated public and private system of cancer control programs throughout the State. Greater coordination among the various public and private agencies can significantly enhance the effectiveness of Maryland's cancer prevention and treatment services, as well as maximize participation in federal programs.

Since the Cancer Council was established 10 years ago, the one constant has been the tenure of its chair—a person appointed by the Governor. Whereas most Councils and Boards undergo a great deal of turnover in leadership, the Cancer Council has enjoyed having long-serving chairs. The first chair of the Cancer Council, Mr. Christian Poindexter served from the Council's inception in 1991 until June of 1999. After Mr. Poindexter's resignation, Governor Glendening appointed Prince George's County physician, Dr. J. Richard Lilly, to serve as the second chair of the State Council on Cancer Control.

Dr. Lilly is the Senior Partner in Multispeciality Practice Group located in Hyattsville, Maryland and has been a practicing physician in Prince George's County for over 30 years. Dr. Lilly received his medical degree from Temple University in Philadelphia and completed his internship at The Church Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland. He is a past President of Med-Chi, the Maryland State Medical Society, and currently serves as Chair of the Med-Chi Insurance Agency. Dr. Lilly has also served on the Board of Directors for Carefirst Blue Cross - Blue Shield, and, Doctor's Community Hospital in Prince George's County.

III. 2001 ACTIVITIES AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS

A: Cancer Council Symposium: Cancer Issues & Challenges: Where We Are & Where We're Going

On November 28, 2001, the Cancer Council hosted its fifth Biennial Symposium, which highlighted the accomplishments of the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program (CRFP)

J. Richard Lilly, MD, Council Chair, delivered the welcoming remarks and enjoyed the privilege of introducing his long-time friend and Governor, Parris N. Glendening. Governor Glendening noted in his speech that Maryland is making great progress in reducing its high cancer mortality rate—moving from its 1993 ranking of fifth highest in the U.S. to ninth highest. The Governor reaffirmed his commitment to his vision of a cancer/smoke-free Maryland and to using the CRFP monies to reduce tobacco addiction and the burden of cancer among Marylanders, especially among minority populations.

John Groopman, Ph.D. of the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health used a statistical approach to present the problem of cancer in Maryland. Dr. Groopman shared insights into environmental links and cancer; reviewed cancer mortality and incidence rates by jurisdiction, region, gender, sites, and high-risk populations.

Sanford A. Stass, MD from the University of Maryland Greenebaum Cancer Center and Martin D. Abeloff, MD from the Sidney Kimmel Comprehensive Cancer Center at Johns Hopkins spoke about the challenges and opportunities their institutions face as awardees of State Academic Health Center Research grants under the CRFP. Maryland is served by two superb academic medical centers working in concert and draws upon the cutting edge technology developed by the National Institutes of Health and the National Cancer Institute. In addition, progressive legislation in the state continues to encourage health initiatives and the delivery of quality health care. During their presentation, Dr's. Stass and Abeloff stated Maryland continues to be challenged in its struggle to:

- Expand cancer education efforts to the public and providers;
- Augment cancer prevention measures;
- Expand early detection of cancer and follow-up efforts;
- Improve access to cancer care services;
- Increase enrollment in clinical trials; and
- Broaden innovative translational research and clinical programs in cancer causation, prevention, detection, and treatment.

Howard K. Koh, MD, MPH, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Health, provided an inspiring keynote presentation as he talked about the Evolution of the Massachusetts Tobacco Control Program. Dr. Koh shared, through a variety of mediums, examples of their anti-tobacco campaigns, which focus on both adult and youth populations of diverse ethnicity. One of the most compelling examples was a brief clip of Senator Robert Kennedy's 1967 address to the First Annual Conference on Smoking and Health. Senator Kennedy stated his opposition to tobacco and his dedication to tobacco use prevention endeavors.

Senator Christopher Van Hollen, Jr.

The afternoon was dedicated to panel presentations which highlighted cancer screening efforts throughout Maryland and in Baltimore City. The first panel consisted of Maryland Senator Christopher Van Hollen, Jr., (left) a chief advocate for the CRFP since its inception, who presented an historical perspective of the development of the legislation. Georges C. Benjamin, MD, Secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, spoke about his role in the statewide implementation of the CRFP.

Judith Sensenbrenner, MD, Wicomico County Health Officer, described how her county is implementing a Colorectal Cancer Screening Program and the role of Community Coalitions. Susan Scherr, a 20-plus year cancer survivor and a staff person with the National Coalition for Cancer Survivorship, provided a list of patient resources and enumerated several patient needs:

- Access to cancer screening and treatment regardless of ability to pay;
- Increased access to clinical trials and supportive services; and
- Quicker translation of research outcomes into the community.

The final panel was dedicated to the screening efforts in Baltimore City in the areas of prostate, oral, breast and cervical cancers. This project is a collaborative effort among Johns Hopkins, the University of Maryland, and the Baltimore City Health Department. Jimmie Drummond, Jr., MD, MPH, from the University of Maryland - UniversityCare Program, gave an overview of the components from the Comprehensive Cancer Plan for Baltimore City:

- Prevention and Education;
- Screening;
- Treatment; and
- Community Partners.

James Zabora, ScD, from the Johns Hopkins Oncology Center, spoke about the work being done among the various Community Health Centers collaborating on the Baltimore City Plan and the designation of Sinai Hospital as the major community hospital.

Ida R. Samet, MBA, from Sinai Hospital, provided an overview of Sinai Hospital's medical center and cancer resources and services. Sinai Hospital currently supports one of the community partners involved in the Comprehensive Cancer Plan for Baltimore City — Park Heights Community Health Alliance (PHCHA).

Victor G. Frierson, PHCHA's Director since October 2000, has been at the helm of the development and implementation of this community-based initiative. PHCHA brings together more than 70 social service agencies, churches, neighborhood associations, schools, public officials and healthcare providers to meet the healthcare needs of the under and uninsured patients in the Park Heights area. PHCHA proposes to establish a Men's Health Center and a Women's Satellite Health Center to provide primary care, screening and case management services.

B: Annual Retreat

The State Council on Cancer Control held its second annual all day planning retreat on June 20, 2001 at the Anne Arundel Medical Center in Parole, Maryland. Dr. J. Richard Lilly, Chair of the Cancer Council, opened the retreat with brief remarks and then turned the meeting over to Dr. John Groopman from The Bloomberg School of Public Health at Johns Hopkins University who moderated the retreat.

The focus of the retreat was to identify issues that the Cancer Council, as a whole, felt were crucial to cancer control in the future. The issues identified would frame the Council's future meetings, events, and briefings over the next year. At the 2000 retreat, one of the Council's priority issues included monitoring the use of the CRFP funds and advocating for continued funding for the CRFP.

Three of the most important issues discussed at the 2001 retreat included continued funding for the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program, increased use of Maryland Cancer Registry data, and expanding the diversity of the membership on the Cancer Council.

C: Formation of the Executive Committee

At the first annual Cancer Council planning retreat in June 2000, the idea of forming an Executive Committee was proposed. While the Executive Committee had existed previously in an ad-hoc capacity, Council Chair Dr. J. Richard Lilly decided to make it a formal part of the Council's structure and instructed staff to begin the process of forming the committee and its charge.

The Executive Committee met on October 10, 2001 and on December 14, 2001. One of the first issues the Executive Committee tackled was reviewing and rewriting the Council's Executive Order. The Executive Committee will be involved in setting the goals and priorities for the Council as a whole.

Members of the Executive Committee are appointed by Dr. Lilly and include:

- Dr. Martin Abeloff, Sidney Kimmel Comprehensive Cancer Center at Johns Hopkins
- Dr. Albert Blumberg, Greater Baltimore Medical Center
- Dr. Katherine Farrell, Anne Arundel County Health Department
- Mr. Charles Leiss, American Cancer Society
- Dr. J. Richard Lilly, Chair – State Council on Cancer Control
- Dr. Carlessia Hussein, Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene
- Dr. David Ramsay, University of Maryland, Baltimore

D: CDC Grant for Comprehensive Cancer Control Planning

In October 2001, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) entered into a two-year cooperative agreement with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to update the Maryland State Cancer Control Plan. The agreement was the result of a grant application submitted by DHMH in response to an RFA put out by the National Comprehensive Cancer Control Program at CDC in the summer of 2001.

The Maryland State Council on Cancer Control will coordinate the new comprehensive cancer control planning initiatives. Dr. Lilly officially announced the grant at the State Cancer Council's 2001 Biennial Symposium.

The Maryland Cancer Plan was last updated in 1996. The purpose of the cancer plan is to examine the cancer problem in Maryland, identify the cancer priorities for the state, and develop recommendations on how to address the cancer problem in the state.

A website has been established for anyone wishing to participate or learn more about the planning process. The website (www.marylandcancerplan.org) will be updated regularly and contain materials used in planning process.

E: 2001 Legislative Session

The 2001 Maryland General Assembly was held from January 9, 2001 through April 11, 2001 in Annapolis, Maryland. The State Council on Cancer Control participated in the legislative process by supporting various pieces of cancer and tobacco control legislation. The Cancer Council reviewed 27 legislative bills and took positions on 14 legislative bills.

Highlights from the session included the passage of a colon cancer screening mandated benefit for health insurance plans in Maryland. Since colon cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in the state, this benefit will not only promote screening but will also begin to raise awareness of this dreaded disease. In addition, the 2001 session saw continued funding of the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program. During the Council meeting in January 2001, members requested Dr. Lilly to meet with the Governor to personally discuss funding for the CRFP. In March 2001, Dr. Lilly and Vice-Chair Dr. Albert Blumberg met with Governor Glendening to discuss funding issues related to the CRFP.

At the end of the legislative session, the Cancer Council joined forces with dozens of other tobacco use prevention groups and urged the Governor to veto HB 698, entitled Tobacco Tax - Purchase of Tax Stamps, a measure that would have lowered the discount rate on tobacco tax stamps, and thus lower the effectiveness of the 1999 tobacco tax increase. The Council was successful in its efforts, and Governor Glendening announced his veto of this legislation.

A complete list of all of the legislation tracked by the Council in 2001 is found in Appendix C.

F: NATIONAL BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

On October 4, 2001 the Cancer Council sponsored a “brown bag lunch” in the O’Connor office building, to recognize National Breast Cancer Awareness month. Local and key cancer educators and support organizations were invited to give 10-15 minute presentations regarding their programs, services and resources available to the community.

The following organizations made presentations:

- American Cancer Society
- DHMH Breast & Cervical Cancer Program
- Johns Hopkins University Breast Center – STAR Study
- Men Against Breast Cancer
- Sisters Surviving
- Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation

G: NATIONAL PUBLIC HEALTH WEEK

The Maryland State Council on Cancer Control joined with other State organizations to recognize National Public Health Week and the significant role that public health plays in closing the gap in health disparities among minorities. This year’s celebration was held from April 2, 2001 to April 8, 2001 in the O’Connor Building at 201 W. Preston Street, and the theme highlighted “Eliminating Maryland’s Health Disparities.”

The Cancer Council’s Executive Director kicked-off the year’s celebration, and the Council’s Coordinator developed a new Council exhibit and provided assistance with the development of a web site about health disparity issues (www.mdhealthdisparities.org).

Kick-off presentations were also made by:

- The National African-American Tobacco Prevention Network
- SmokeFree Maryland
